

My mission is to stick to my education and finally graduate. I will accomplish this with my commitment, determination, and consistency each day which will continue to drive me forward. My commitment to finishing my education this time will keep me grounded and will be the basis of what I need to keep me on track. My determination toward finishing my education keeps me focused because I know each day is a step in the right direction. Being consistent and not allowing myself to fall behind will keep me on task and keep my mind on where I am headed. I believe in myself and my will to graduate from this program and I will keep pushing forward no matter what because I don't deserve anything less than to succeed in this industry.

Yes! My mission statement is still very much relevant. I have kept the same mind set I had five months ago. I have learned that with these online classes I need to be very on top of things and that it is a lot more demanding than I originally thought – so I have needed to change my way of staying on top of my homework a bit. During the month of my SDI class, I really saw how much work is going to go into designing and developing websites is going to be. I still know for a fact that this is what I want, but it has altered my way of thinking of how it is going to be an easy thing to grasp. It's not! It is something I have to keep up with daily. If anything, this has made my determination to reach my goals stronger.
